Top Sunless tanners for SUMMER

I love a good tan...who doesn't? A bronze body just makes you feel healthier, slimmer and hotter. However, with skin cancer on the rise, nasty side effects of baking away all day in the sun happen. (I'm talking about sun spots, premature wrinkles and uneven skin tone). Your best bet is to reach for a sunless tanner. You will get the same effect (think tan skin) without all the bad repercussions. Here is your go-to guide to the top sunless tanners for summer:

For Newbies:

An easy-to-use sunless tanner that builds up color gradually (Jergens Natural Glow Collection) is ideal for newbies. Designed as a sunless tanner/moisturizer that allows you to layer on your golden glow daily is best for a streak-free, buildable bronze look. You use this sunless tanner in lieu of your regular moisturizer. When applied daily, you will notice a gradual tan within a couple of days. Build your color daily until you achieve your ideal glow.

For Just One Night:

More interested in a one-night stand with your tan rather than a long, drawn-out relationship with it? That's ok; there are products for you non-committal girls, too. Try the bronzer St. Tropez One Night Only Instant Body Glow. This body lotion has a built-in bronzer. A single application will give you a bronze look for just one night. It washes away with your next shower.

For an Insta-Tan:

Let's face it! Sometimes you just can't wait for a tan to develop. You need dark legs and you need them NOW. For times like this, Lancome Flash Bronzer is your best bet. This sunless tanner gives you an instant golden glow. It works (in about 30 minutes) to give you longer lasting color that remains up to 5 days. Slather some on your legs before you head out the door on Friday. You will still have color to get you through the beginning of your work week.

For a Professional Look at Home:

An airbrush tan applied by professionals is the crème-de-la-crème of sunless tanning. For those who want the same effect at home, try the airbrush tan-in-a-can Loreal Sublime Bronze Salon Airbrush. The bronzer in the formula allows one to see where the product has already been applied.

FLASH

For the best look, spray in up and down motions (rather than circular) all over your body. Hard-to-reach places, including your back, may be made good since this brand is sprayable even when the can is upside down.

For the Face:

A tanned face looks healthier and requires less makeup application. If you are looking to skip the bronze body and focus on your face, try a tanner made specifically for delicate facial skin. Sunless tanners for the body may not be formulated for the face. They can clog pores and irritate the skin on your face. Sunless tanners for the face, including Kate Somerville 360° Face Self Tanning Pads, contain built-in exfoliators that help eliminate streaks.

Tips from the Pros:

Sunless tanning can be fabulous if you know the tips and tricks used by the professionals.

TIP #1: EXFOLIATE

Professional spray-tanners suggest shaving and exfoliating your body before bronzing. This will eliminate any uneven color or streakiness. Use a body scrub or loofah to exfoliate in the shower.

TIP #2: USE BARRIER CREAM (AKA LOTION)

Applying an adequate amount of lotion to your elbows, knees and feet, prior to self-tanning, will help keep those areas from getting darker than the rest of your body. Sunless tanning rookies often make this big mistake of not applying lotion first.

TIP #3: WASH YOUR HANDS

Don't forget to thoroughly wash your hands after applying any sunless tanner. Another way to spot a rookie sunless tanner is orange hands.

TIP #3: REMOVING SUNLESS TANNER

Suppose you did make a mistake and now you have a big orange streak down your leg. Don't fret! You can remove it and start over! Rub the streaks away with an exfoliating scrub. St. Tropez Tan Remover is an example of an available product.

Summer

So summer is here, and you are ready to show off your body. You feel light, energized and confident. It's evident you worked hard at the gym, and watched your nutrition to look this good and toned.

And so it starts: pool parties, holidays, mini vacation with friends, birthdays and more pool parties. All of a sudden, you stop going to the gym as much and think: "I'm going to maintain my body by just doing cardio". NO! I'm stopping you right there. We all know that if you do loads of cardio you will burn tons of calories, YES! But when you lift weights, you WILL build lean muscle. The combination of doing both cardio and weights will not only give you the "killer" body you want, but it will also help you maintain the amazing body that you worked so hard for all of these months.

Now, here are some things to consider this summer:

- 1. You've heard it a million times; weights are NOT going to bulk you up. The only way you will "get bigger" is if you don't eat the appropriate foods. Always remember: the more muscle you have, the more calories you burn.
- 2. Nutrition. It's very important for you to keep a balanced diet. Eat loads of vegetables, lean proteins, fruits, and healthy fats (such as avocados and nuts). It is also very important to stay away from complex carbs, such as white breads and candy, as they will make you feel sluggish. Remember the more sugar you eat the less fat you will burn. I live by this credo.
- 3. It's a lifestyle, NOT a diet. Sure, if you eat nothing but apples all day long for a week, you'll lose weight. But seriously, can you eat nothing but apples for the rest of your life? Probably not. The problem with "diets" is that they are not realistic. Every once in a while you are going to get a craving, and once you start unhealthy habits, the pounds will start accumulating.
- 4. Keep making small changes. For example, when you go to that certain restaurant because you want to eat your favorite hamburger, skip the cheese. This will reduce your calorie intake from fats by at least 100 calories.
- 5. If your target is to lose one pound of fat in a week, you should cut down your daily intake by about 500 calories. You can do this by combining lower food intake with an increase in exercise.

- 6. Portion Control I cannot stress this enough! Do not eat till you are full. You can always eat again in 2 or 3 hours. By overeating, you are actually stretching your stomach.
- 7. Complete your workout, even when you feel tired. Sometimes we might be tired and dread going to the gym, but most times these are the days when we have the best workouts. Focus on today, not tomorrow's workout.
- 8. Always make sure you warm up, stretch and cool down. Do this when you run, and also when you are doing cross and strength training. Be smart about your training.
- Create a playlist with your favorite music and artists. Music is a great way to stay motivated.
- 10. Sleep, sleep, sleep! Adequate sleep is a key part of a healthy lifestyle and will benefit your heart and weight. Your body only builds muscle tissue when you are NOT weight training. Be consistent with your sleep, and DO NOT eat 2 to 3 hours before you go to bed. You've heard it a million times, and it is true.

If you have any questions about weight training, cardio, or if you need a little motivation or nutrition advice, you can check my website, twitter or Facebook.

This Summer's TOP Sundress Trends

by Kelli Kickman

It's summertime, and that means it's time for going to the beach, getting some sun and looking fantastic every step of the way. When you're faced with the hot weather, but still want to look your best, sundresses are the perfect way to stay cool and be stylish. There are, however, a lot of styles to choose from. This season has brought new sundresses suitable for every girl: the girly, the artsy and the edgy.

This year's sundresses don't ignore the S/S 2018 sheer fabric trend. With see-through tops, these are not your classic sundresses. They are perfect to wear over swimsuits for long, hot summer days, and they add a little sex appeal to the cutesy dresses we know (and still love). The sheer fabric makes them appear even more weightless and airy. They also have cutouts and designs that are similar to sundresses of the past, so you can keep your edge and still have the cute patterns you've grown up with.

While we're talking about cute designs, we can't forget the ever-popular bird motif. This season, it may be the most popular sundress trend. The animal pattern is usually paired with a simply cut sundress, and sometimes a peter pan collar. It's an innocent, girly look, and adding a short hemline to show some leg gives it a little hint of sexy. These dresses are popular in longer lengths as well, so if you're looking to stay covered there are still plenty of options. In longer lengths, these dresses are also appropriate in slightly more formal situations. That means you can start with a comfortable walk on the beach, and then meet your friends at a restaurant that may be less accepting of mini-length dresses.

As far as colors go, the bird designs are sometimes found in neutral colors, muted grays and blues or simple blacks. But the more popular trend is for brighter colors. This season is full of clothes that give your wardrobe a little pop and make you stand out, so why fight it? Bright blues, pinks and oranges are key colors this season, and add energy and fun to your style.

If you like a classic look, then floral print sundresses may be just right for you. The feminine print is not a new idea, but this year there are some interesting differences. The once popular dainty, small floral pattern has been replaced with large, bold flowers. Most popular in earthy tones, this look is ideal for your eco-friendly nature girl. One of our favorites this season is the airy off-the-shoulder floral dress from Blugirl. The double-layered knee-length skirt gives the perfect amount of movement, and the ribbon-belted waist helps create that perfect and fluid hourglass shape we love.

Finally, one of the most popular sundress styles is also the most simple. Just as the little black dress is a fashion staple every girl owns, this summer make sure you have your little white dress. A simple white sundress puts the attention where it belongs: on you. One of the biggest benefits of a simple white sundress is that they are versatile and easy to accessorize. This means you can show your individuality, and use one white sundress fifty different ways. A bright belt or cute scarf can add a little flair and completely change your look, while wearing a plain white sundress is an innocent, classic and always fashionable look that works for everyone.

Whether you're looking to seriously spice up your summer wardrobe, or just add some simple, girly styles to wear to the beach, the right sundress could be just what you need. There are styles and patterns for every taste, shape and style, so you can compliment your body and show off your personality and choose colors from whites, earthy tones, or bold, in-your-face colors. With a surprising amount of versatility, sundresses are the must-have summer staple for 2018.

Did you have fun at your RUNWAY photo shoot?

This shoot was seriously a dream come true! I've always wanted to do a Barbie-inspired shoot, and this went above and beyond my expectations and what I could of have ever imagined! I mean, a Barbie dream house is the perfect way to describe it. Everything was so perfect from the house, photography, clothes, hair, makeup just everything! This was one of my favorite shoots I've ever done!

What styles do you plan on wearing this summer?

It's fair to say I would wear a bikini everyday if I could. But living in LA, I have the luxury of a year-round summer. I love to wear a lot flowy dresses and skirts, lots of crop tops and shorts. It honestly depends how I am feeling on that day.

How was Miami Swim Week?

Miami Swim Week was amazing! I've never been before, so I was so excited to see what it was all about and it definitely didn't disappoint! I was invited to sit front row at all the major swim shows like Sports Illustrated, Beach Bunny, Frankie's Bikinis, Luli Fama just to name a few. It was truly an honor that they wanted to have me front row at every one of those shows.

What do you eat to stay so fit?

I try to stick to healthy options, like grilled chicken, vegetables, salads and healthy sandwiches. I've actually started getting into vegan options, and I definitely see a difference in how I look and feel.

Tell us about the IDLife Experience.

IDLife is this amazing lifestyle brand that carries everything from supplements to protein smoothies, shakes, meal plans, etc. It's a great program to be involved with. I love how they run things and I truly see a difference in my body when I use their products.

What was one of your most memorable experiences on WWE?

I'd have to say winning the WWE Divas Championship Belt. Being given that chance meant that Vince McMahon, the writers and agents all believed in me after 5 years of working my butt off and proving I could be the best wrestler I could. I felt like they really noticed my hard work and thought it was my time to hold the championship. I was able to bring pride to it and the fans were behind me all the way. That's why it meant so much to me, because the fans really wanted to see me win it. I had been an underdog for so many years, and they knew I was just as deserving as Vince and everyone else at WWE.

Can you tell us what it's like on the set of WAGS?

Being on the set of WAGS is actually very entertaining. I work with amazing people and an amazing production company who have always supported me and have my back. I love what I do. We just finished wrapping our third season, and it's been a great journey. You've seen a lot of my ups and downs, but it's all true and shows exactly what we have going on in our lives, good or bad. The girls and I have all formed a great bond just because we are all living and going through the same things, especially being in relationships with athletes. I have to say it's one of the best sets I've ever been a part of.

Who has been your favorite person to work with?

I love working with all the girls on the show. We have our own special bonds between each other. I really love Nicole. We've gotten really close over the past couple years and she's been such a great supportive friend. We always have a blast together working on and off camera.

What can we look forward to seeing from you in the future?

I really hope to get more involved in acting, whether it be TV, movies or both! I love being in front of the camera and performing. It's always been a passion of mine, even as a little girl. I will also be coming out with my own bikini calendar for 2018, and I have been selling Barbie Blank t-shirts on a website called prowrestlingtees.com, which have become a huge hit! I'm going to be coming out with my own Barbie Emoji's very soon, so keep a look out for those! And can't wait to see what else this year brings. The world is definitely my oyster!

Any advice to aspiring young talent?

Get an education first and then figure out exactly what it is you want out of life. When it comes to a job or family, just go for it, and at the end of the day you can say, "You know what, I went out there and I tried." Whether it works out or not, you can go through life proud of yourself for at least trying something you've always dreamed of doing! That's what I did with wrestling, and now look where I am today. Just always believe in yourself and never let anyone tell you different.

So, what are you up to these days?

I'm working as a reporter for FOX Sports in the US, working for BBC Sports in the UK and internationally, and I am a cast member on the current season of VH1's Basketball Wives. My passion is my charity work, focusing on the welfare of animals and our military's veterans, as well as visiting Capitol Hill often to get bills passed for animals and our wounded warriors. Every day is a crazy busy day for me!

Which was your favorite gown from the RUNWAY photo shoot?

I've always been a big fan of Rita Hayworth, and the red dress made it feel as if I was her. I love the glamour of old Hollywood.

Who is your favorite designer?

Stella McCartney. As an animal activist, I like that her line is cruelty-free and she has a vegan line of boots and purses that I'm a big fan of. I have many of them!

Tell us about your charity Hounds and Heroes.

I formed the charity in 2011. I combined my two passions: animal welfare and the military. Our primary initiative is rescuing dogs from shelters and pairing them up with wounded warriors as service and therapy dogs. Our second major initiative focuses on rescuing horses that will be slaughtered and setting up equine therapy sessions with wounded warriors in Dallas.

Tell us about your multiple USO trips.

I've traveled nineteen times on USO or Goodwill tours to entertain and support our troops deployed all over the world, including eight trips to Iraq and Afghanistan. The experiences I've had on these tours are absolutely life changing. To be with our heroes in a combat zone is unlike anything you will experience. Coming from a military family these tours have been the best times of my life.

Tell us about your first acting experience.

I had many guest starring roles but my first recurring role was on Baywatch where I had a 4 episode arc. We were filming an episode and a riptide grabbed me causing me to get pulled out into the ocean. The real Los Angeles lifeguards had to come and save me. It's something that I won't forget! Looking back it was an honor to be a part of such an iconic show. I still have my red one piece swimsuit and lifeguard can.

What was it like being on Basketball Wives?

This was my first foray into reality television and it has been quite the experience to say the least...loll I've made a couple great friends on the show which has been nice.

Did you love your NBA/NFL cheerleading days?

Being a professional dancer and sports fan this seemed like the best fit. I started off dancing for the Golden State Warriors, San Francisco 49ers then to the Dallas Cowboys and received a Super Bowl ring. I traveled all over the world and was cheering for the best teams at that time. These days really molded me and gave me a great stepping stone for my career. These were some wonderful times in my life!

Tell our readers about the rings you are wearing in our RUNWAY photo shoot.

I was fortunate during my time working for the Los Angeles Lakers as the first (and only!) female NBA scout that the team won five championships. As part of front office of the organization, I received a ring each year the Lakers won.

What is your next venture/project?

I have my own digital sports show that will be debuting next month, my children's book will be out in the Fall as well as re-launching my clothing line, Doubleplay Sportswear. Also I am working with a great team to produce a show that combines food, travel, and sports, I am also the host and producer. Look for it on the airwaves early next year.

What was your favorite part about shooting with RUNWAY?

I love getting glammed up to wear the fabulous dresses and working with all of the creative and energetic people on set.

Tell us about your personal fashion.

Personally, I go for comfort first. I would describe my fashion as a tomboy, cute swag! I really like matching sets or baggy pants with a fitted top. However, I'm always up to try new things.

Who is your favorite designer?

Of course Jacob at For The Stars Fashion House!

Do you have ant hidden talents?

I love to write lyrics for songs and I can draw.

Tell us about your music?

I love to sing and perform. I come from a musically talented family, so it's in my blood. When I'm not auditioning or filming, I'm creating songs. I'm currently working on some songs for an EP project. My style is a perfect blend of pop and R&B. It's very melodic and the lyrics are relatable, but unexpected.

What is your favorite season and why?

Summertime! I'm such a summer babe, the weather is perfect for days at the beach and outside activities. One true fact, is that summer's always end with good memories.

How does it feel being on not one but two hit shows?

It's a blessing. I've always looked forward to this and to see my dreams come true it's surreal. I'm humbled by this experience and look forward to continued growth and success.

How can you relate to your characters on "Empire" and "13 Reasons Why"?

Yes, in many ways. For example, young Cookie on Empire is a young girl growing up trying to find her way in life while discovering her passion for music. I've had times in my life where I had to make tough decisions in order to follow my dreams and I also have a strong passion for music. As for Sherri, in 13RW, I think all girls can relate to the "high school" experience, especially when it comes to dealing with relationships, being vulnerable to peer pressure and using your better judgment. At the end of the day, even though Sherri made some bad choices, she was able to accept what she did was wrong and tried her best to makes things better, and I think we all can learn from that.

Describe a typical day when you're not on set.

I love spending time with friends, working out, going to the beach, eating sushi and of course recording songs in the studio.

Do you have any new projects coming up?

I'm currently filming a feature film with Gabrielle Union. It's a thriller titled "Breaking In", from Will Packer Productions and Practical Pictures. I will also costar in season 2 of Netflix series "13 Reasons Why" and appear, along with Taraji P. Henson, in Tyler Perry's film, "She's Living My Life".
